

Post-Training Reflection Task

Curriculum and Assessment-Proven, practical ways to boost engagement and progress for all learners

Thank you for participating in the recent Curriculum and Assessment Webinar. The following task is provided to help you to implement the new ideas in your school/ classroom.

01.

Without referring to any notes made during the webinars, challenge yourself to write down as many things as you can remember from the webinars.

02.

Next, check back over your notes paying particular attention to anything you had not remembered and written down. As discussed in the webinar, the hyper correction effect means that we remember more deeply the things that we forgot or got incorrect initially.

03.

Now look at your list and identify the top 3 most important ideas and strategies from the webinars.

04.

Think of these 3 ideas as your development priorities. Select your first one of the 3 and commit to trying/ exploring this in some way over the coming 2 days. Research shows we are more likely to try new things if we don't delay.

05.

Reflect on how the approach worked. Remember that most new approaches need 3 to 5 attempts to make them work smoothly in the style of your own teaching and classroom.

06.

Think about how you could share the idea with your colleagues. What additional tips and pointers would you suggest?

07.

Let us know how you get on – or if we can help in anyway.
